POLICIES

COVID Policies

For the health and safety of our community, in-person courses and hybrid (in-person and ZOOM simultaneously) courses:

- Masks are required for all instructors, students, and staff. Face-coverings must be worn securely over the nose and mouth while indoors.
- Instructors may lower masks while teaching and will remain at least 10 feet from students.

General Policies

In-Person-Only Courses

- Participants will be seated in classrooms at St John's United Methodist Church.
- Participants may NOT bring animals or children to the class sessions.
- Water bottles and beverage cups are allowed in classrooms; RENESAN will provide coffee carts.
- In-person sessions are NOT recorded.
- Presentation-format classes are primarily lectures with questions and answers allowed at the instructor's discretion. Course size will be capped at 100.
- Discussion-format classes encourage student discussion with the instructor serving as leader. Course size will be capped so that the discussion is meaningful and not overwhelming.

ZOOM-Only Courses

- Discussion-based courses: Participants can see and hear each other as well as the instructor. Course size will be capped so that the discussion is meaningful and not overwhelming. These courses will NOT be recorded.
- Presentation-based courses: Participants can see and hear the instructor and any presentation materials, but participants are not on camera and are muted. Participants can ask the instructor questions via a moderated chat text box. Course size will be capped at 100.

Presentation-based ZOOM class sessions will be recorded, and the recordings will be available to all students for a week after the class occurs. RENESAN is NOT responsible for students being able to successfully view the recordings, and NO refunds will be issued if students are unable to view the recordings.

Hybrid (ZOOM and In-person simultaneously) Courses

- Students participating online and in-person can see and hear the instructor and any presentation materials.
- Online participants are not on camera and are muted. Online participants can ask the instructor questions via a moderated chat text box.
- Presentation-based courses: Course size will be capped at 100. Class sessions will be recorded, and the recordings will be available to all students for a week after the class occurs. RENESAN is NOT responsible for students being able to successfully view the recordings, and NO refunds will be issued if students are unable to view the recordings.
- Discussion-based courses: Course size will be capped so that the discussion is meaningful and not overwhelming. These courses will NOT be recorded

RENESAN Spring 2023 Catalog: Course Descriptions

ARCHAEOLOGY/ANTHROPOLOGY

ARCH S23-01 Tales from the High Himalayas: Encounters with Himalayan Vampires

Instructor: Mark Aldenderfer
Thursday: January 26 1:00-3:00 pm
Format: In-Person, Presentation
1 session: $20

We all know about vampires and the actors who portray them: Nosferatu, Dracula, Bela Lugosi — even Brad Pitt and Tom Cruise. These are “our” vampires, grown out of central European traditions that star Vlad the Impaler. Himalayan vampires, on the other hand, come from a different tradition. For example, they do not confer immortality, but instead sickness and death. We will join the instructor in an archaeological and ethnographic exploration of Himalayan vampires. based on his ongoing research in Upper Mustang of Nepal. We'll examine artifacts, texts, and ritual exorcisms designed to banish these vampires from our lives. Garlic and crosses won't work on Himalayan vampires, but ritual impalements (not necessarily through the heart) may!

Mark Aldenderfer, a professor of anthropology and archaeology for more than 40 years, has worked on the Tibetan plateau and High Himalayas for 25 years. This course draws on his vast experience. Mark enjoys communicating the passion he feels for his work. His most recent course for RENESAN was Tears of the Sun: Gold in the Pre-Columbian Americas in Fall 2022.

ARCH S23-02 New Advances in the Archaeology of the Ancient Maya

Instructor: Jerry Sabloff
Wednesday: January 25 1:00-3:00 pm
Format: In Person, Discussion
1 session: $20

In this exciting time, important new archaeological findings and methods, as well as new collaborations with modern Maya peoples, are changing our understandings of ancient Maya civilization. First, LIDAR, a remote sensing technique, has transformed archaeologists' perceptions of demography and urban layouts. Second, new discoveries along the eastern and southern borders of the Maya Lowlands have revolutionized our understanding of the rise of Maya civilization and its relationships with the Olmec. Third, we now better understand how climate change, especially droughts, affected the ancient Maya over many centuries. The instructor will illustrate these topics with numerous slides and will encourage class discussion of these and other topics throughout the class session.

Jeremy A Sabloff (BA, U of Pennsylvania; PhD., Harvard), is an External Faculty Fellow and Past President of the Santa Fe Institute and Christopher H. Browne Distinguished Professor of Anthropology, Emeritus, of the University of Pennsylvania. He has taught at Harvard, the University of Utah, the University of New Mexico, the University of Pittsburgh, and the University of Pennsylvania (where he was the Williams Director of the University of Pennsylvania Museum from 1994-2004). He is the author/co-author and editor/co-editor of two dozen books and monographs as well as the author/co-author of numerous scholarly articles and book chapters. His principal scholarly interests include ancient Maya civilization, the rise of complex societies and cities, the history of archaeology, and the relevance of archaeology in the modern world.

Byzantine Baptisteries of Turkey

Instructor: William Tabbernee
Thursday: February 23 1:00-3:00 pm
Format: Zoom, Presentation
1 session: $20

When Emperor Theodosius I (ruled 397-395) made Christianity the official religion, the Roman Empire built numerous baptisteries to initiate former pagans or heretics into orthodox Christianity. The building campaign was especially strong in Anatolia (Asia Minor), the vast region comprising most of what is now Western and Central Asiatic Turkey. Almost 200 Anatolian baptisteries and/or fonts have been discovered thus far, with more coming to light every year as archeologists explore new sites. This richly illustrated class will focus on the most recently discovered baptisteries, describing their geographical location, archaeological remains, and architectural features as well as their purpose and function.

William Tabbernee, PhD, LittD, DD, specializes in the archaeology of the ancient world. Former President and Stephen J. England Distinguished Professor of the History of Christianity at Phillips Theological Seminary, Dr. Tabbernee has published dozens of scholarly articles and several books. He is excited to present the most up-to-date information about recent archaeological discoveries in Turkey.

In the Footsteps of St. Paul

Instructor: William Tabbernee
Thursday: February 2, 9, 16 1:00-3:00 pm
Format: Zoom, Presentation
1 session: $60

In this course students will virtually travel to ancient Turkey, Israel, Syria, Cyprus, Greece, and Italy, guided by instructor William Tabbernee, who has led numerous in-person tours to these sites. In addition to such well-known ancient cities as Tarsus, Jerusalem, Damascus, Ephesus, Athens, and Rome, students will also visit lesser-known sites, including Caesarea Maritima, Paphos, Perge, Antioch-in-Pisidia, Troas, Philippi, Corinth, and Assos. These sites look much as they did when Saint Paul visited. Dr. Tabbernee will lead student through the archaeological remains of these cities and explore the temples, palaces, public buildings, people, and events of St. Paul's time as well as the subsequent history of each site. Finally, like pilgrims of old, students will see each site's art and architecture that commemorate Saint Paul's visit.

William Tabbernee, PhD, LittD, DD, specializes in the archaeology of the ancient world. Former President and Stephen J. England Distinguished Professor of the History of Christianity at Phillips Theological Seminary, Dr. Tabbernee has published dozens of scholarly articles and several books.

Human Bones and Archaeological Problem-Solving: How Skeletal Remains Speak about Past Lives and Cultures

Instructor: Maria Ostendorf Smith
Wednesday: March 22 3:15-5:15 pm
Format: In Person, Presentation
1 session: $20

Human skeletal remains are frequently recovered during archaeological excavation. Some were deliberately interred; some not. The details of their interment often reveal social roles and (now extinct) belief systems. In addition, the human skeleton itself preserves a wealth of information about social roles/status, physical stresses, quality of life, community health, and even their economy. In this course, we will discuss pathological and health conditions that skeletal remains reveal. This information provides important details about past cultures that material objects cannot. Students will engage in archaeological sleuthing with clues derived from skeletal remains.

Maria Ostendorf Smith, retired professor Illinois State University Department of Sociology and Anthropology, has studied human skeletal remains since 1981 from pre-Contact sites in Tennessee, Illinois, and New Mexico. Her primary research interests are temporal changes and patterns of intergroup violence, the health correlates/consequences of agriculturalization, and the cultural meaning of several specific diseases.

ART

ART S23-01 Santa Fe Art Gallery Tours

Instructor: Susy Moesch
Friday: March 10, 17, 24 1:00–3:00 pm
Format: In-person, Gallery Tour
3 sessions: $60

Note: Walking Tour locations for this course will be sent to the registered participants prior to the course dates.

Santa Fe, where art museums and galleries abound, is a haven for art lovers. In this course we will meet on three consecutive Fridays at different locations to glimpse some of the city's most exciting art works. We will visit three galleries per session. In each location the gallery owner or staff will introduce us to the art on display. Gallery locations and meeting points will be announced via email.

Each Santa Fe Gallery Tour course will visit a unique set of galleries.

Susy Moesch has been active in the arts as a studio potter for more than 30 years. While living in Japan, she was a curator in yearly exhibitions of contemporary Japanese prints, and one year acted as chairperson of the event. She has led gallery tours for Renesan since the fall of 2012.

ART S23-03 Five Women Who Changed Modern Art: A Visual Lecture in Two Parts

Instructor: Barbara Arlen
Monday: March 20, 27 10 am–noon
Format: In Person, Presentation
1 session: $40

Set in postwar New York City in a turbulent social and political era, this course looks at the lives and work of five women artists in a male-dominated art world. Mary Gabriel's book, Ninth Street Women: Lee Krasner, Elaine de Kooning, Grace Hartigan, Joan Mitchell, and Helen Frankenthaler: Five Painters and the Movement That Changed Modern Art tells their story. We will discuss the book and examine these women's lives, paintings, aesthetics, influences, and their impact on other artists of their generation and after. If you haven't read the book, it will not detract from the classroom experience.

Barbara Arlen, global consultant for soft home furnishings and fashion products for 40 years, has consulted for India and China and has taught in India, the Fashion Institute of Technology (where she facilitated a Color Certificate), and at the Pratt Institute in NYC. She recently taught Color Theory at Santa Fe Community College. Arlen studied painting with John Opper and Esteban Vicente and art history with H.W. Janson and Irving Sandler at NYU.

ART S23-04      Portraiture in Contemporary Art with Hands-On Session

Instructor:            Barbara Arlen
Wednesday            March 1, 8    10 am–noon
Format:                In-Person, Presentation
2 sessions:            $40

Portraiture is the recording of an individual's appearance and personality, whether in a photograph, painting, sculpture, or any other medium. What makes portraiture so magical is its ability to depict not only the physical but also the psychological characteristics of a person.

In this two-part course, the instructor will first lead students on a visual art journey, looking at portraiture throughout history, including the social issues it reveals, and at artists who are creating global contemporary portraiture. In the second part, using a mirror, students will create self-portraits with colored pencils, crayons, pastels, or conte crayon. No art experience is required. We will then hang up our creations and have a class critique. For most, this exercise helps us learn about ourselves and others. It can often be an emotional experience.

Barbara Arlen, global consultant for soft home furnishings and fashion products for 40 years, has consulted for India and China and has taught in India, the Fashion Institute of Technology (where she facilitated a Color Certificate), and at Pratt Institute in NYC. ART S23-05      The Nature of Glass

Instructor:            Ellen Zieselman
Tuesday:              February 21, 28, and March 7    1:00–3:00 pm
Format:                In-Person, Presentation
3 sessions:            $60

Note: The first two sessions of this course will be held at RENESAN, and the third at New Mexico Museum of Art in Santa Fe.

This course will look at the art of glass using the exhibition The Nature of Glass (at the New Mexico Museum of Art) as its inspiration. We will look at techniques for glass making (slumping, molds, glass blowing) and examine various glass artists and glass objects. The first two sessions, focused on still images and videos, will take place at RENESAN. The third session will take place at the NM Museum of Art glass exhibition.

Ellen Zieselman was Curator of Education at the New Mexico Museum of Art for 25 years and has taught at RENESAN for decades.

ART S23-06      Photography in Cuba

Instructor:            Stuart Ashman
Tuesday                April 11    10 am–noon
Format:                In-Person, Presentation
1 session:             $20

Note: This class will be held at Artes de Cuba Gallery in Santa Fe

Since the early 1900s, Cuban photography has been at the forefront of that art form. The country has a rich history of photojournalism, studio photography, and fine art photography. Today, Cuban photographic artists focus on myriad subjects, including personal images, artistic expression, political commentary, and photojournalism. This course will take place at Artes de Cuba Gallery, where students will see actual works by contemporary photographers.

Raised in Cuba and later New York City, Stuart Ashman holds a BA in Photography and Fine Arts from City University of New York. Ashman spent more than 30 years as a museum executive. He led the NM Museum of Art in Santa Fe, the Museum of Latin American Art in Long Beach, CA, and the Center for Contemporary Arts in Santa Fe. He also served as Cabinet Secretary of the New Mexico Department of Cultural Affairs.

ART S23-07      Color me Blue

Instructor:            Phoenix Savage
Tuesday:              March 14    1:00–3:00 pm
Format:                In-Person, Presentation
1 session:             $20

The most ubiquitous color is blue. When we look at the daytime sky, we see a shade, tone, or value of blue. Nearly every nation favors blue; in fact, the United Nations peacekeeping color is blue. This course offers an in-depth look at blue. What biological factors allow us to see this color? If blue is so pervasive, then why it is the rarest color in nature? How does our built environment employ blue as a subliminal prompt to direct our behaviors and thoughts? This course will answer these questions as we explore the political, scientific, and cultural relationship between humans and the color blue.

Phoenix Savage

(Graduate degree in Medical Anthropology and MFA in Studio Art) is Associate Professor of Art at Tougaloo College, where she leads the Art and Social Practice Program. She is also a Visiting Professor at Brown University, where she teaches African American Art History and experimental art courses. A Fulbright Scholar and a three-time Scholar in Residence at New York University, Savage recently completed an Artist in Residence at the Santa Fe Art Institute, where she spent a lot of time looking at New Mexico’s blue skies.

ART S23-08*Textile Fiestas of Mexico

Instructor: Sheri Brautigam
 Tuesday April 18 3:15-5:15 pm
 Format: In-Person, Presentation
 1 session: $20

This course will follow the format of Sheri Brautigam's guidebook, Textile Fiestas of Mexico, that explores the most popular celebrations and artisan fairs in the Mexican states of Michoacan, Oaxaca, and Chiapas. The course will introduce students to traditional textiles still produced by skilled artisans, textiles that are important indicators of their indigenous identities. The instructor visited these fairs over a five-year period. With her guidance and countless images of places, people, and textiles, the student will experience the culture, dances, ceremonies, and markets of these beautiful celebrations. Let's GO!!

Sheri Brautigam (MA, Teaching Language) began her adult education studying Latin American History in Mexico City, where her passion for Mexican culture and textiles began. Sheri had a textile design studio in San Francisco for 20 years and taught marketing and design to other textile artists. After moving to New Mexico 30 years ago, Sheri embraced interests in travel and collecting and taught English as a Second Language for Adults at SFCC. She received an English Language Fellowship with the US State Department and trained Mexican English teachers in Central Mexico. During this four-year period, she rediscovered traditional Mexican textiles. Sheri is eager to share her journey.

ART S23-09 Textilandia / Oaxaca and Chiapas

Instructor: Sheri Brautigam
 Monday: April 24 3:15-5:15 pm
 Format: In-Person, Presentation
 1 session: $20

In this course, the instructor will explore in detail two very different states of southern Mexico: Oaxaca and Chiapas. In Oaxaca, we will look at indigenous communities that identify themselves through beautiful traditional textiles. We will also visit the local markets and experience the vibrant street culture, where celebrations happen continuously. The highland Mayans of Chiapas, who still maintain traditional customs and belief systems of their ancient civilizations, will also open their ceremonies, celebrations, and markets to us. Students will enjoy countless images of people, places, and textiles the instructor collected on her travels.

CULTURAL STUDIES

CS S23-01 Food and Legacy

Instructor: Ellen Lampert
Monday: March 13, 20, 27 1:00-3:00 pm
Format: In-Person, Discussion
3 sessions: $60

In this discussion course, students will share their backgrounds in cuisines by looking at ethnic heritage, family and social attitudes, school education, and life experiences in changing locations and traveling. Students will have the opportunity to write a food memoir or a compilation of recipes they have either remembered or encountered through their lives. The instructor has found these documents invaluable to pass along in families. Recommended advance reading: Taste: My Life Through Food by Stanley Tucci.

After graduate work in sustainable agriculture and accessible nutrition, Ellen Lampert has run Slow Food Santa Fe, a member chapter of the international Slow Food organization, for 12 years. In her monthly dinner and book potluck, a changing cast of characters discusses a book about food (history, sociology, anthropology, travel, farming).

CS S23-02 (In-Person) or CS S23-02-Z (ZOOM)

The Shape of Thinking Through Time

Instructor: Lois Stark
Monday: April 10 1:00-3:00 pm
Format: Hybrid (ZOOM or In-Person), Presentation
1 session: $20

Shape itself can help us read the past and glimpse the future. A web shape summarizes migratory humans' worldview, imitated in round thatched huts, kivas, and Stonehenge. A ladder mindset arose with urban humans, reflected in structures from pyramids to skyscrapers. Today networks master our lives. What's next? From web to ladder, network to next, we shape our world; then it shapes us.

Lois Farfel Stark (BA, Sarah Lawrence; MEd, Boston University; MA Communications, American University) produced and wrote documentaries for NBC News; filmed in Africa, the Middle East, Europe, and Cuba; and independently made films covering architecture, medical research, globalization, and social issues. Awards for her films include an Emmy and two CINE Gold awards. Her book The Telling Image: Shapes of Changing Times won a Gold Nautilus Book Award, Grand Prize from Next Gen Book Awards, and a Gold National Indie Excellence Award. Her TEDx talk is titled Shape: Hiding in Plain Sight.

CS S23-03 Ethical, Consensual Non-Monogamy: Can Open Relationships Work?

Instructor: Mim Chapman
Wednesday: March 15 1:00-3:00 pm
Format: In-Person, Presentation
1 session: $20

"Mommy, daddy, and baby makes three" is no longer the only description of a happy family. Same-sex couples are now common, and people who have romantic relationships with more than one partner are more accepted, and more open about their lives. Eighty-five percent of the world's population live in cultures that accept non-monogamy. Can non-monogamy work in our society? How do romantic relationships involving more than two partners function? What skills are required to create and maintain open relationships? This interactive presentation will explore polyamory's cultural, historical, and ethical foundations; how open relationships work; their strengths and challenges; research findings about polyamory; and social and legal issues facing polyamorous families. Questions, objections, and feelings on all sides will be openly welcomed.

Mim Chapman has a PhD in Educational Leadership, as well as degrees in counseling and in music. Her professional focus has been on cultural diversity of all types, including relationship diversity. She is the author of the Unitarian Universalist curriculum Welcoming Diverse Families and of the book What Does Polyamory Look Like? She is currently a relationship coach and sex educator in Santa Fe. She has presented on this topic at colleges and conferences, including the National Academy of Psychotherapists. She is enthusiastic about helping people expand their own horizons and increase their understanding of others who are different in their sexual and relationship choices.

CS S23-04 (In-Person) or CS S23-04-Z (ZOOM) Chaos, Tragedy, Transition: The '60s in America

Instructor: Allen Stone
Wednesday: April 12, 19, 26 1:00-3:00 pm
Format: Hybrid (ZOOM or In-Person), Presentation
3 sessions: $60

The 1960s was the decade that never rested—inaugurating our youngest President, pledging to reach the moon that decade, assassinating our leaders, meeting the Beatles. Everyone gets the right to vote, rock music controls the airways, LBJ quits, and Nixon is hired. In this course, the instructor will look at the good and the bad, and probe the issues that continue to confound us. The first session will focus on the road from Eisenhower to Nixon and changing times. The second session will look at war and violence at home and abroad, and explore four pivotal figures: JFK, MLK, RFK, and Malcolm X. The last session will look at New Mexico in the 1960s and national changes in the national media, culture, and music.

A native of Dallas, Texas, Allen Stone was in high school the day JFK came to town. His experience of JFK's assassination led to a 45-year career in broadcast journalism. Stone has won three Dallas Press Club awards. In 2003-2004, his team won the Dupont-Columbia Journalism Award for work on the 40th anniversary of the Kennedy Assassination. Allen also spent time in sports broadcasting as the lead play-by-play announcer for the NBA Dallas Mavericks and for Southern Methodist University (SMU). Allen and his wife Mary have lived in Santa Fe since 2019. They're not leaving.

It's Praying Cats and Dogs: Sacred Images of Everyday Pets

Instructor: Talitha Arnold
Tuesday: March 7 10:00 am-12 noon
Format: Hybrid (ZOOM or In-Person), Presentation
1 session: $20

Both cats and dogs were worshipped by the ancient Egyptians, but through much of history and in various religious traditions, dogs were seen as dangerous scavengers and cats as witch accomplices or bad luck signs. This course looks at both religious and cultural understanding of our everyday pets through the ages. It draws primarily upon the spiritual traditions of Judaism and Christianity, both Biblical and historical, but also includes understanding from other Middle Eastern sacred traditions.

Talitha Arnold (M.Div., Yale Divinity School; BA, Pomona) has been Pastor at United Church of Christ for 42 years. She has lectured with RENESAN, Berkshire Choral Festival, Santa Fe Symphony and Chorus, Muslim Mental Health Institute, and other organizations. She has a cat and a dog and a sister who was the first woman board-certified veterinary surgeon in the US and the first woman dean of any veterinary college in North America.

CS S23-06 Beyond Blue and Pink: An Introduction to Terms, Best Practices, and the Creative Navigation of Binary Systems for Transgender and Non-binary Communities.

Instructor: Jess Clark
Tuesday April 4 3:15-5:15
Format: In-Person, Discussion
1 session: $20

More transgender and non-binary people are coming out than ever before. This progress in visibility means that families, peers, community organizations, and businesses need guidance how to best support trans people in a system not built for their needs.

Many people want to support transgender communities but don't know how or feel ashamed by the questions they have. The influx of new terms and best practices into a community, without the space to contextualize and educate, can lead to overwhelming instead of learning. This course recognizes that no community can change when its members feel like they are left behind. Instead of aiming for perfection, this course moves participants into a place where they can try, make mistakes, learn from them, and apologize with grace. By de-centering the need to learn the "right" language and focusing on how to see transgender and non-binary people as individuals, participants can move into a place of vulnerability, which leads to learning and lasting change. This course uses storytelling, discussion, and historical context to explain basic terminology, re-frame common myths and explore ways to move in solidarity with transgender and non-binary communities.

Jess Clark is the Director of Sexual Violence Prevention for the New Mexico Coalition of Sexual Assault Programs, a consultant for Catharsis Productions in Chicago, IL, a transgender education consultant, and the host of Both/And: A Sexual Violence Prevention Podcast. His work over the last decade has focused on increasing youth capacity to interrogate systems of oppression, exploring queer and trans masculinities as sites of violence prevention, and supporting organizations in better serving transgender communities through policies, best practices, and learning to be like his grandma.

CURRENT EVENTS

CE S23-01 Moving Upstream: Sexual Violence Prevention in New Mexico COURSE CANCELLED

Instructor: Jess Clark
Thursday: January 19 1–3 pm
Format: In-Person, Presentation
1 session: $20

Sexual violence prevention is a relatively new field within the larger anti-sexual violence movement. Because of the field's youth, New Mexico is still learning how to implement effective prevention strategies responsive to our state's specific needs. Many community members lack context, direction, and a role to play. In this discussion class, the instructor will guide participants through prevention theory, explore how we move beyond barriers to social change, discuss the landscape of prevention programming in NM, and show students how we can all use story-telling to engage our own communities in prevention efforts. This presentation will help participants understand the role they can play and will leave them with hope for the future of sexual violence prevention.

Jess Clark is the Director of Sexual Violence Prevention for the New Mexico Coalition of Sexual Assault Programs, a consultant for Catharsis Productions in Chicago, IL, a transgender education consultant, and the host of Both/And: A Sexual Violence Prevention Podcast. ### CE S23-02-Z The New Yorker: Fact or Fiction

Instructor: K Paul Jones and Various
Tuesday: January 24, February 7, 21, March 7, 21 1:00-3:00 pm
Format: ZOOM, Discussion
5 sessions: $100

Note: This course is limited to 21 participants and meets every other week via Zoom.

Join lively in-depth discussions of articles from The New Yorker chosen and led by class participants. The New Yorker, with its wide variety of current topics, lends itself to thought-provoking conversations. This course usually covers one work of fiction and one nonfiction article in each session. Poetry, cartoons, or covers can also be selected. Add your voice, views, and insights. Copies of articles will be made available for those who need them. K. Paul Jones organizes the volunteer leaders.

CE S23-03 Polar Bears and People: A Study of Adaptation and Survival

Instructor: Creve and Jan Maples
Thursday: March 23 3:15-5:15 pm
Format: In-Person, Presentation
1 session: $20

Over the last 200,000 years, polar bears have adapted to thrive in one of the world's harshest environments—the frozen Arctic. One of the driest places on earth, the Arctic features winter temperatures that hover around -40 degrees Fahrenheit and very sparse food sources. Despite this environment, the polar bear has evolved to become the world's largest land carnivore, equally at home in violent blizzards and icy arctic waters. We still don't fully understand how this marvel of adaption occurred.

In 1770 a settlement formed in the subarctic region on the shores of Hudson Bay, Canada, right in the migration path of the region's polar bears. For over 250 years, this town has also struggled to survive in this unforgiving environment as it has morphed from fur trading center to arctic seaport to military base to spaceport. Now global climate change threatens the survival of both the bears and the town. Ironically, the town and the polar bears now must depend on each other for survival!

Dr. Creve Maples (PhD in Nuclear Science, UC Berkeley), has worked in both academia (Head of the Advanced Computer Architecture Lab at UC Berkeley's Lawrence Berkeley National Lab and Head of the Synthetic Environment Lab at Sandia National Laboratory) and in the private sector (Chief Scientist at Vitesse Electronics and CEO of MuSE Technologies) designing advanced computers and developing virtual reality systems for learning. His work in human/computer interfaces led to investigations into human perception and primitive brain function. His interest in history and archeology led to the formation of companies active in these areas. His RENESAN classes result from scientific curiosity, love of photography and travel, and desire to explore unusual, thought-provoking topics.

Jan Maples, President of The Connecting Point, combines over 25 years of experience in human resources and training with a degree in organizational communication. Her interests include travel, photography, and cultures (both organizational and anthropological).

ENCOUNTERING NEW MEXICO--PRESENTATIONS

ENC S23-01 Global Santa Fe: Dialogue and Diplomacy, Cultural Exchange and Student Engagement

Instructor: Lisa Ellis
Wednesday: March 15 10:00 am-12 noon
Format: In-Person, Presentation
1 session: $20

Since 1965, Global Santa Fe (formerly Santa Fe Council on International Relations) has elevated global knowledge, ideas, and actions. We recently rebranded: our new name—Global Santa Fe—and our new tagline—Connecting Our World—promise a potent exchange of global experiences, insight, and ideas, calling on members of our communities to become globally informed citizens. This presentation covers our history and our three areas of emphasis: dialogue and diplomacy, cultural exchange, and student engagement.

Jim Falk, president emeritus of the World Affairs Council of Dallas/Fort Worth, retired in March 2021 after serving as the organization’s president for two decades. Now residing in Santa Fe, New Mexico he is member of the Board of Global Santa Fe where he chairs the program committee; he is currently serving as interim President & CEO. Jim co-hosts Perspectives Matter, a McCuistion Program, on KERA-Dallas (PBS). He is a member of the Council on Foreign Relations and honorary consul of Morocco for the states of New Mexico and Texas.

ENC S23-02 El Rancho de Las Golondrinas: Living History in the La Cienega Valley

Instructor: Daniel Goodman
Wednesday: April 12 10:00 am-12:00 noon
Format: In-Person, Presentation
1 session: $20

Founded in the early 1700s, El Rancho de Las Golondrinas was a Paraje, a rest stop on the Camino Real. This presentation covers the history of Las Golondrinas, its development into a living history museum, and its 50 years as a cultural institution in the Southwest. The instructor will highlight Las Golondrinas’s connections to other local institutions, the history of La Cienega, and the archaeology of the area. The history presented by Las Golondrinas is severely underrepresented in the US. The development of this historic ranch into a living history museum has preserved over 500 acres of unique cultural landscape and 34 historic buildings for New Mexicans and visitors alike to explore. Las Golondrinas specializes in immersive environments it takes history out of locked cases and puts it in the hands of guests, getting them hands-on with history.

Museum Director Daniel Goodman (BA in Anthropology and Sociology, Westminster College; MA in History and Museum Studies, University of Missouri) has worked in museums for over 20 years. His experience includes collections management, curation, and historic site management and preservation. Before coming to Las Golondrinas in 2012, he held positions at the New Mexico Museum of Art, the Museum of Indian Arts and Culture, the Indiana State Museum, and the St. Louis Mercantile Museum and Library.

ENC S23-03 Benedictine Monastics in New Mexico: Continuing a 15-Century Tradition

Instructor: Brother Chrysostom
Monday: January 23 1:00-3:00 pm
Format: In-Person, Presentation
1 session: $20

Founded in 1964, the Monastery of Christ in the Desert near Abiquiu provides the home for a community of Benedictine monks, as well as a guesthouse for private retreats. This presentation details the origins, history, and current status of the Monastery. The instructor will also examine the origins, history, and current reality of Benedictine monasticism. Finally, Brother Chrysostom will discuss what it means to be a monk, including vows, roles, and daily life.

ENC S23-04 Girls Inc. of Santa Fe: Developing a Better Understanding of Girls and Youth in Our World

Instructor: Kim Brown & Madonna Hernandez
Tuesday: January 31 1:00-3:00 pm
Format: In-Person, Presentation
1 session: $20

Founded in 1955, Girls Inc. of Santa Fe provides youth with life-changing experiences and solutions to the unique issues they face. Girls Inc. gives girls the tools and support they need to succeed, including trained professionals who mentor and guide them in a safe, girls-only environment; peers who share their drive and aspirations; and research-based programming. In this interactive presentation CEO Kim Brown will discuss the status of girls and youth in our community and how we can better support them to be themselves and take leadership roles in our world. Topics include language with youth, toxic stress and trauma, and developmental stages of youth.

Joining Girls Inc. staff in 2005 as Program Director, CEO Kim Brown (BS in Psychology, minor in Women’s Studies, University of Southern Illinois) has also worked as Director of Program Development and Operations Director. She has served as a residential counselor for children with learning differences, was a trainer in the National Guard, serves as a mentor for the Girls Inc. National Latina Initiative, and is certified as a Trainer of Trainers for Girls Inc. nationally researched programs.

In 2000, at the age of 16, Director of Programs Madonna Hernandez began working with Girls Inc. of Santa Fe as a facilitator in summer camp program. Over the last 20 years, Madonna has helped Girls Inc. National write their Healthy Sexuality Programming as well as develop their Latina Initiative. Madonna is a graduate of Leadership Santa Fe and currently serves on their Birth-to-Career Collaborative, which focuses on data-driven decision-making in education. Madonna also serves on the Santa Fe Public Schools Diversity and Inclusion Panel. Madonna loves to inspire girls to be strong, smart, and bold.

ENC S23-05 The Historic Santa Fe Foundation: A Preservation Future

Instructor: Pete Warzel, Melanie McWhorter, Mara Saxer
Tuesday: January 31 10:00 am-12:00 noon
Format: In-Person, Presentation
1 session: $20

Founded in 1961, the Historic Santa Fe Foundation (HSFF) focuses on preserving, protecting, and promoting the diverse cultural heritage of the Santa Fe area and educating the public about Santa Fe's history and the importance of preservation. Preservation is concerned not only with architectural integrity, but with the cultural history and customs of our diverse population. It creates a sense of identity for the city and its citizens. This presentation tells the story of HSFF's founding in the context of urban renewal and building development, the development of vision and programs over the next 50 years, and the recent shift to a more public-facing, relevant organization, including interaction with the city, state, and collaborative organizations. We will also look at education and hands-on participation for the future, involving a new generation in the deep history of northern New Mexico.

Executive Director Pete Warzel has business experience in media and entertainment with Telecommunications Inc., United Artists Entertainment, and start-up companies internationally. He publishes fiction and non-fiction articles and essays. Joining HSFF in 2014, he has helped manage a directional change from property owner to an education and outreach organization. Deputy Director Melanie McWhorter (MS, Environmental Studies, Green Mountain College, BA in History, Lander University) has worked with HSFF for seven years. She owns Melanie McWhorter Photography Consulting. Her work is displayed in the collections of University of Colorado, Boulder Special Collections, and the Palace of the Governors. Preservation Programs Manager Mara Saxer has worked with HSFF for seven years. She studied architecture and historic preservation at Tulane University and is co-founder of Artwalk Santa Fe and is an accomplished jeweler.

ENC S23-06 National Dance Institute New Mexico: Courageous Innovation Using Performing Arts to Impact Educational Outcomes Across New Mexico

Instructor: Russell Baker
Tuesday: March 28 1:00-3:00 pm
Format: In-Person, Presentation
1 session: $20

National Dance Institute (NDI) uses a compelling combination of performing arts, youth development, and physical fitness to address gaps in New Mexicans' access to arts. This presentation describes our programs, details our impact across time, illustrates our pandemic and post-pandemic innovations, and portrays how we engage community partners. We will provide an overview of NDI New Mexico's child-focused non-profit work in New Mexico. This will include videos and conclude with a participant discussion.

Executive Director Russell Baker (BA in English, Vassar; MFA in Ballet Teaching and Choreography, University of Utah) danced professionally with the Kansas City Ballet for ten years. In 2001, Russell attended NDI New Mexico's teacher training program, which so inspired him that he moved to New Mexico. Russell directed NDI's programs in Española Valley and Santa Fe prior to being named Artistic Director. Russell became Executive Director in February 2008.

ENC S23-07 Santa Fe Botanical Garden: More Than Just a Pretty Place

Instructor: Christie Collins
Wednesday: March 29 10:00 am-12:00 noon
Format: In-Person, Presentation
1 session: $20

Created in 1987, the Santa Fe Botanical Garden celebrates, cultivates and conserves the rich botanical heritage and biodiversity of our region. This presentation covers the garden's history and highlights the three main sections of the garden: Orchard Gardens, Ojos y Manos (Eyes and Hands), and Piñon-Juniper Woodland. We will discuss each garden section's design, water conservation efforts, and layout strategies. How can we create a successful botanic garden at 7000 feet? We will also discuss upcoming public programs and garden lectures.

Santa Fe Botanical Garden Education Manager Christie Collins specializes in outdoor education for school programs, camps, and adult programs. In her 15 years of experience, she has worked for the state of Missouri; a non-profit nature center in Knoxville, Tennessee; and a sea turtle rehabilitation facility in Boca Raton, Florida.

Los Luceros: Revealing a Hidden Gem of New Mexico

Instructor: Carlyn Stewart
Monday: April 3 1:00-3:00 pm
Format: Hybrid (ZOOM or In-Person), Presentation
1 session: $20

Designated a historic site in 2019, Los Luceros Historic Site in Alcalde includes 148 acres of towering cottonwood trees, rolling agricultural fields, incredibly preserved historic buildings, a delightful apple orchard, four miles of traditional acequia ditches, and a bosque full of wildlife, all sitting on the bank of the beautiful Rio Grande. The centerpiece is a 5,700 square-foot, 18th century Territorial-style adobe hacienda or “great house.” In addition to the hacienda and a visitor center complex, the property contains three residences, an 19th century chapel, a storehouse, an early 20th century Victorian Cottage, and numerous farm buildings. Why do so many people love Los Luceros? The instructor will discuss the site’s history and its current programs and projects, and help students excavate this “hidden gem.”

Regional Manager at Los Luceros Historic Site, Carlyn Stewart (BA in Anthropology, University of Arizona; MA in Public Archeology, University of New Mexico) has worked at Los Luceros since January 2020. Previously she worked as an archaeologist throughout Arizona and New Mexico.

ENC S23-14 Santa Fe Animal Shelter: Creating a Foundation for the Future in Animal Welfare

Instructor: Jack Hagerman
Wednesday: February 1 3:15-5:15 pm
Format: In-Person, Presentation
1 session: $20

In the post pandemic world, animal shelters around the country struggle with higher admission rates and crisis-level veterinarian shortages while trying to address the core issues that lead to companion animal homelessness. Santa Fe Animal Shelter's CEO Jack Hagerman provides an overview of the state of animal welfare in New Mexico and how his team is transforming animal services in Santa Fe to increase lifesaving, keep families together, and end companion animal homelessness in our community. He'll probably show you some pictures of his dog too. Just go with it.

As a child, Santa Fe Animal Shelter CEO Jack Hagerman (BA in Journalism, University of La Verne) founded and operated his own make-shift animal rescue – taking in stray cats, injured birds, and the occasional bunny. Clearly not learning his lesson as an adult, he co-founded a critically endangered livestock conservancy on his farm in the Midwest. After moving to LA, he served as Vice President of Operations and Community Engagement at Pasadena Humane Society. Prior to joining Pasadena Humane, Jack built successful marketing, communications, and community relations programs at some of the largest health care delivery systems in the country. He and his partner Andrew have an elderly Dachshund who completely runs the household.

Instructor: Alexis Lowry & Meagan Mattingly
Wednesday: March 29 1:00-2:30 pm
Format: ZOOM, Presentation
1 session: $20

The Lightning Field (1977) by American sculptor Walter De Maria is a work of land art situated in a remote area of the high desert of western New Mexico. It includes 400 polished stainless-steel poles installed in a grid array measuring one mile by one kilometer. The poles—two inches in diameter and 20 feet in height—are spaced 220 feet apart and have solid, pointed tips that define a horizontal plane. Commissioned and maintained by Dia Art Foundation, The Lightning Field exemplifies Dia’s commitment to supporting art projects whose nature and scale exceed the limits of traditional museum or gallery. Come learn more about this amazing work and about the Dia Art Foundation.

Dia Art Foundation Curator Alexis Lowry is responsible for exhibitions, commissions, and public programs across Dia’s sites and locations. At Dia, she organized commissions by Lucy Raven, Rita McBride, and Kishio Suga, as well as installations by, among others, Mel Bochner, Mary Corse, Melvin Edwards, Charles Gaines, Barry Le Va, Robert Morris, Charlotte Posenenske, Michelle Stuart, Anne Truitt, and Lee Ufan. Dia Art Foundation Director of Learning and Engagement Meagan Mattingly is responsible for the creative and strategic leadership of engagement-driven initiatives across the institution. Her previous experience includes work with arts- and community-driven organizations, museums, government, and school programs for children and youth.

Instructor: Devendra Contractor
Tuesday: January 31 3:00-5:00 pm
Format: In-person Tour
1 session: $20

In 2014, the New Mexico Museum of Art started the journey to create a new museum space dedicated to contemporary art in Santa Fe’s Railyard District to complement its historic site on the Plaza, effectively creating one museum in two locations. The Vladem Contemporary, designed by DNCA Architects and scheduled to open in 2023, is one of North America’s most innovative spaces for creating, learning about, and appreciating contemporary art.

Moving beyond the restrictions of the intimately-scaled galleries of the historic New Mexico Museum of Art building into a large and flexible exhibition space opens up the possibility for large-scale installations, multi-media projects, and even performance-based works that are central to 21st century artistic practice. Museum programming will include regional, national and international artists, as well as artist-to-artist engagement and community-based dialogue.

In this tour, Devendra Narayan Contractor, the founding principal architect of DNCA, will introduce students to this exciting new museum and will highlight the architectural design of the Vladem Contemporary.

DNCA Architects’ founding principal architect Devendra Narayan Contractor has 35 years of design and construction experience. Contractor specializes in the design of education, fine arts, and performing arts facilities. In addition to the Vladem Contemporary, DNCA’s other award-winning projects include the gallery buildings in the Santa Fe Railyard, the Levitated Toy Factory, and the Meteorite Museum in Albuquerque.

FILM S23-01-Z Film Discussion

Instructor: Kathy Adelsheim
Wednesday: January 25, February 1, 8, 15, 22 10 am–12 noon
Format: ZOOM, Discussion
5 sessions: $100

Watching favorite films and discussing them with a small group of film lovers—what could be better? For each session we choose an independent, foreign, or documentary film easily available online. Participants view the film at their convenience and attend class via Zoom prepared to discuss it. Class discussions involve critical thinking and in-depth analysis. The instructor prepares the discussion outline, provides background materials, and moderates the conversation.

Kathy Adelsheim (Master’s in Education, University of Minnesota) has worked extensively in adult education and is a trained group facilitator. She teaches bridge privately and for Santa Fe Community College.

FILM S23-02 American Voices/American Vistas: Emily Dickinson, Charles Ives, John Ford, and Paul Thomas Anderson

Instructor: William "Bud" Cox
Thursday: March 2, 9, 16, 23 1:00–3:00 pm
Format: In-person, Presentation
4 sessions: $80

While priding themselves in being close to the land, simple, and practical, Americans also like to move, to get away, to get on to the next thing. Journeys are at the center of John Ford's and Paul Thomas Anderson's films. Emily Dickinson's poems feature spatial metaphors that suggest how movement, including in the inner self, is endemic to the American character. Composer Charles Ives cherishes sounds and melodies coming and going away, bands passing, choirs at a distance, music moving continuously through its space and ours.

Reading Dickinson's poems, listening to Ives's compositions, and seeing films of Ford (Young Mr. Lincoln, My Darling Clementine, The Man Who Shot Liberty Valance) and Anderson (There Will Be Blood, The Master, and Magnolia), we will explore how these four distinct American voices display the movement and simplicity central to the American grain. As John Ford states, "I have kept from my childhood a liking for good people, simple people, people who go on doing their job in the middle of cheats and crooks." Students will view film clips in class and will watch the entire films outside of class.

Bud Cox has taught literature, film, and music history since 1975. After teaching high school for 42 years at six independent schools in the East, Bud moved to Santa Fe in the summer of 2016. He has long been fascinated with Emily Dickinson, Charles Ives, and John Ford. More recently he has added Paul Thomas Anderson to his list of favorites. For Bud, being able to teach a poet, a composer, and two exemplary filmmakers in the same course is a dream come true.

FILM S23-03 Made by New Mexicans

Instructor: Jeff Berg
Monday: February 27 1:00–3:00 pm
Format: In-person, Presentation
1 session: $20

New Mexico is noted for everything from amazing skies to world famous chile. However, these descriptions often overlook the wealth of musicians, writers, artists, and people associated with the film world who were born in, or have lived in, the Land of Enchantment. Using film clips, the instructor introduces students to 13 individuals who have helped enhance New Mexico's visibility to the world. After each clip, the instructor offers tidbits about the person and the featured film. Some of his special subjects include silent film star Mae Marsh, born in Madrid, NM, who once earned $2,500 a week; Rudd Weatherwax, born in Engle, NM, who later became the trainer for canine star Lassie; actress Carol Burnett; and singer John Denver, who was born in Roswell.

Jeff Berg is a New Mexico film historian and author. His books include New Mexico Filmmaking and Historic Movie Theaters of New Mexico. A Chicago native, he first visited New Mexico in the 1960s and moved to Santa Fe in 1995.

FILM S23-04-Z Moving to Normalcy and Humanity in America's Penal System—COURSE CANCELED

Instructor: Helen Molanphy
Monday: January 30, February 6, 13 1:00-3:00 pm
Format: ZOOM, Discussion
3 sessions: $60

In this discussion course, the instructor will look at the American penal justice system through the lens of documentary films. Outside of class, the students will watch two documentaries before each session: Session 1: Professor Heather Ann Thompson lecture on Blood in the Water at Brown University, Rikers Island: An American Jail; Session 2: After Innocence, The Sentence; Session 3: Prison Project: Little Scandinavia, Shakespeare Behind Bars. These films highlight penal system characteristics which resulted in mass incarcerations and tell the stories of incarcerated individuals. Most of the films are free on YouTube or Kanopy, and one is available on Showtime. The first session will look at the history of Attica, the second will deal with the impact of legal and artistic communities on the American penal system, and the third will focus on alternative penal models. Recommended advance reading: Helen Molanphy's The American Penal System: Transparency as a Pathway to Correctional Reform.

In 1982, Helen Molanphy completed a doctoral dissertation on the history of the Texas prison system. While a professor of Political Science at Richland College, she presented many papers on aspects of corrections. After retiring from Richland College, she offered film courses on corrections at Colorado and New Mexico colleges, most recently at the Santa Fe University of Art and Design. In May 2022, Routledge Press published her book The American Penal System: Transparency as a Pathway to Correctional Reform. Helen's previous book was a 2012 family memoir Over P.J. Clarke's Bar: New York City's Famous Saloon published by W. W. Norton

FILM S23-05 So, You Think You Got A Story?

Instructor: Harry Werksman
Tuesday: January 24 10 am–noon
Format: In-person, Discussion
1 session: $20

Everyone can write, but not everyone is a writer. The instructor, a successful TV writer and often the target of pitched TV story ideas, has learned that almost everyone thinks writing is easy and that their idea is amazing. Sadly, neither is usually true. In this discussion course, the instructor will take students through what a story is and what makes a good story. Then he will lead students through creative writing exercises with a focus on a free-wheeling exchange of ideas. Maybe the next Columbo, The Crown, or Ted Lasso will emerge.

After leaving academia—followed by a few detours—Harry Werksman became a TV writer, worked hard, and got lucky. He has worked on a dozen series, including a few number one shows and a few no one's ever heard of, sold some pilots, won some awards, and taught some eager students.

FILM S23-06 Robert Altman's Nashville: an Enduring Metaphor for America

Instructor: William "Bud" Cox
Wednesday: February 22, March 1 1:00-3:00 pm
Format: In-person, Presentation
2 sessions: $40

Robert Altman once described Nashville, the city, as "the new Hollywood," a place where "instant stars, instant music, and instant politicians" coalesce around contemporary American fears, desires, and values. In 1975's Nashville, a stunning and still relevant film, Altman portrays the lives of people involved in the business of artistic invention and explores how musical artists illuminate life's realities through the medium of country music. Altman shapes the film, a metaphor for how we understand America, by portraying two worlds: the dazzling public and bleak private lives of Nashville musicians and Nashville music insiders versus the world of the audience, people like us who can only watch. In this truly prescient film,

Altman creates a subject and form that convey the essential paradoxes of contradictory personalities who operate within multi-faceted American reality.

Bud Cox has taught literature and film (along with art history and music history) for more than 46 years and remains deeply enthusiastic about teaching. Bud wrote his Master's thesis on Nashville in the early '80s, and this film continues to capture his fascination and curiosity. Recent RENESAN courses include The Godfather, Part II: The Greatest American Film in the 20th Century and '30s and '40s Screwball Comedy.

HIS S23-01 or HIS S23-01-Z The Polish-Ukrainian-Russian Borderland, 1914-1921

Instructor: Michael Nutkiewicz
Thursday: February 2 10:00 am-12 noon
Format: Hybrid (ZOOM or In-Person), Presentation
1 session: $20

World War I and the Russian Civil War unleashed unprecedented violence in the borderlands of Poland, Ukraine, and Russia. Between 1914 and 1921, several simultaneous wars were fought: the Soviet Union against Germany and Ukraine; Poland against Ukraine; and later Poland against the Soviet Union. One tragic consequence of these ongoing conflicts was the murder of up to 250,000 Jews in pogroms perpetrated by all sides—the Ukrainians, the Red Army, and the Poles. These pogroms foreshadowed the genocide of Eastern European Jews just 20 years later during the Second World War. Understanding the 1914-1921 borderland history is critical for grasping the current conflict between Ukraine and Russia and understanding the shape of Eastern Europe.

Michael Nutkiewicz (History PhD, UCLA) has taught Jewish history at the University of Missouri-Columbia and UNM. His book, A Ukrainian Chapter: A Jewish Aid Workers' Memoir of Sorrow, published by Slavica Publishers in October 2022, is a translation of a 1921 Yiddish memoir by a relief worker who toiled in the killing fields in Ukraine during the Russian Civil War.

Mikhail Gorbachev: His Life & Legacy, 1931–2022

Instructor: K Paul Jones
Thursday: January 19, 26 10 am–noon
Format: Hybrid (ZOOM or In-Person), Presentation
2 sessions: $40

Mikhail Gorbachev’s death last August awakened interest in his role in both the collapse of the Soviet satellite empire in 1989 and then the collapse of the Soviet Union in 1991. This class will focus on those years but will begin with his early life, followed by his rise to national prominence and selection as General Secretary of the Communist Party. Students will then examine Gorbachev’s efforts to transform the Soviet Union via glasnost and perestroika and his efforts to end the Cold War by replacing the Soviet empire with what he called a “European Common House.” What resulted was not what he had hoped to achieve, but he remained proud of his legacy.

K. Paul Jones, retired professor of Modern European History, has enjoyed teaching for RENESAN since 2006. He has offered several courses about Russia from Stalin to Putin. Last semester he lectured on Ukraine & Russia: A Troubled Relationship—From Imperial Russia to Vladimir Putin.

Lenin: Forging Communism; Stalin: Purging Communists

Instructor: Donald Gluck
Monday: March 13 10 am–noon
Format: In-Person, Presentation
1 session: $20

Spearheading the 1917 Revolution, arguably the most important event of the twentieth century, Lenin built the first Communist state. With Khrushchev’s 1959 denunciation of Stalin, Lenin was elevated. Was it deserved? What did Lenin institute and what were the consequences? To help with this, we will watch portions of the 1998 film Secret Lenin. In our consideration of Stalin, we will look at perhaps the most horrible of Stalin’s actions: the Great Terror and the related Moscow Show Trials of 1936 to 1938. As part of our examination, we will watch two short films. One depicts the fate of ordinary people, and the other contains footage from Vyshinsky’s prosecution of Bukharin in the last trial. We will detail what happened, and we will ponder why.

Donald Gluck, PhD, is a retired aerospace engineer. For 11 years Gluck taught courses on foreign and older movies. More recently, he instructed on the Holocaust, Mao’s China, George Orwell’s 1984 and Mikhail Bulgakov’s The Master and Margarita for UNM Continuing Education, Albuquerque Oasis, and RENESAN. Gluck has traveled several times to Russia and Ukraine, where he has professional colleagues.

Welcome to Blair House

Instructor: Benedicte Valentiner
Tuesday: March 28, April 4 10 am–noon
Format: In-Person, Presentation
2 sessions: $40

Across from the White House lies the intensely private Blair House complex, the world’s most prestigious presidential guest house. In this course, the Blair House’s former General Manager will take students on a virtual tour while she examines Blair House’s special role in hosting the official guests of US presidents and in shaping 19th century US history. She will also discuss the importance of informal diplomacy in furthering American foreign policy objectives and helping leaders gain a deeper understanding of cultural differences. The instructor will share many amusing and sometimes shocking anecdotes.

Danish-born Benedicte Valentiner (BA, Copenhagen Business School), author of Bedtime and Other Stories from the President’s Guest House, was Chatelaine of Blair House for over 13 years. She received hotel training in Europe and the US, has done raptor research in Iran, maintained a weaving studio in Mexico and New Mexico, worked in the NM State Legislature and the US Senate for Senator Pete Domenici, and served as protocol consultant to the Leland Stanford Mansion Foundation, CA. She has published numerous articles on world leaders, was an instructor at the Chautauqua Institute, NY, and is a member of the Explorers Club of New York City.

Red Scare Redux

Instructor: Mark Davis
Thursday: March 2, 9 10 am–noon
Format: Hybrid (ZOOM or In-Person), Presentation
2 sessions: $40

During the Cold War, the U.S. government became obsessed with hunting and purging communists, fellow travelers, and liberals. The story of this era can be told through the lens of four events: the execution of the Rosenbergs; the Hiss-Chambers trials; the blacklisting of movie actors, producers, and screenwriters, including the Hollywood Ten; and the rise and fall of Joe McCarthy. Prominent politicians such as Richard Nixon, Robert Kennedy, and Roy Cohn—who mentored Donald Trump—launched their careers during this period. This course demonstrates how lip service to the rule of law frequently masks crude political calculations.

Mark Davis, a Maryland lawyer for 38 years, has taught nine RENESAN courses on 20th century history and law.

A History of the Inquisition in New Mexico COURSE CANCELLED

Instructor: Robert Martinez
Monday: April 24 10:00 am-12 noon
Format: In-Person, Presentation
1 session: $20

The Inquisition is one of the most infamous religious courts in history. The institution had a presence in New Mexico during the colonial period. Cases of heretical behavior reveal much about the social and religious practices and activities of people in the 1600s, 1700s, and 1800s. State Historian Rob Martinez presents a fascinating look at the history of the Inquisition in Europe, Spain, and the Americas, with a focus on Mexico and New Mexico.

State Historian Rob Martínez is a native New Mexican from Albuquerque. A graduate of the University of New Mexico (MA in Latin American History with an emphasis on New Mexico history), Rob was a research assistant at the Vargas Project, learning research skills and paleography, abilities that would serve him well as a historian. Before becoming state historian in 2019, he was Deputy State Historian for six years at the New Mexico State Records Center and Archives.

HIS S23-07 or HIS S23-07-Z History of Confederate Monuments

Instructor: Jake Greene
Thursday: April 27 1:00-3:00 pm
Format: Hybrid (ZOOM or In-Person), Presentation
1 session: $20

After the Civil War, Ladies' Monument Associations sought to erect monuments to honor the valor of Confederate soldiers and to vindicate Southern manhood in the face of defeat. The monument movement changed when Lost Cause organizations raised monuments in such public places as courthouse lawns expressly to preserve white supremacy and Confederate culture. Protests against Confederate monuments sprang up soon after Reconstruction and continue today.

The instructor will explore this history and invite students to discuss how they think these monuments should be treated today.

Jake Greene (BS, Forestry and Conservation, MPA focused on organizational culture and development) has studied the American Civil War for 60 years. He has presented eight Civil War courses at RENESAN, including Dissent in the Union and the Confederacy During the Civil War, The Myth of the Lost Cause, Black Civil War Soldiers, and Women in Uniform During the Civil War.

HIS S23-08-Z John Lawrence: *Arc of Power: Inside Nancy Pelosi's Speakership, 2005–2010

Instructor: John Lawrence
Monday: February 13 1:00-3:00 pm
Format: ZOOM, Presentation
1 session: $20

The midterm election of 2022 focused attention on the complicated inner workings of Congress: how personalities, partisanship, and competing institutional interests shape the operations of the American government. In Arc of Power: Inside Nancy Pelosi's Speakership 2005-2010, author John Lawrence provides insights into how our national government functions when it succeeds and why it often falls short of expectations. As Speaker Pelosi's 2005-2010 Chief of Staff, Lawrence offers an informed perspective based on 38 years as a senior House staff person. Lawrence tells the story in which the major participants—Pelosi, Bush, Reid, Obama, and many more—battle for political power, deal with the fiscal crisis of 2008, pass the Obama stimulus and health care laws, and confront a dissatisfied electorate in 2010. The course offers participants a unique insight into the innermost workings of the US political system in all its complexity.

Visiting professor at the University of California's Washington Center since 2018, (PhD, American History, University of California Berkeley) John Lawrence served for 38 years on personal, committee, and leadership staffs in the US House of Representatives, the last eight as Chief of Staff to Speaker Nancy Pelosi (2005-2013). His 2022 book Arc of Power: Inside Nancy Pelosi's Speakership 2005-2010 has been praised as "superbly written ...a must-read" (Professor Douglas B. Harris, Loyola University). Lawrence also wrote The Class of '74: Congress After Watergate and the Roots of Partisanship.

LITERATURE

LIT S23-01 or Willa Cather's Southwest: Death Comes for the Archbishop and *The Professor's House

LIT S23-01-Z Instructor: Ed Walkiewicz
Tuesday: February 7, 14, 21, 28 3:15–5:15 pm
Format: Hybrid (ZOOM or In-Person), Discussion
4 sessions: $80

Although many think of Willa Cather as a chronicler of the American Heartland, she wrote two intriguing and important novels inspired by visits to Northern New Mexico, Colorado, and Arizona. Death Comes for the Archbishop traces the career of Jean Marie Latour, a French Jesuit based on Jean-Bapiste Lamy, builder of Santa Fe's St. Francis Cathedral. Set partly in Santa Fe, Taos, Albuquerque, Acoma, Isleta, and other New Mexico locations, the novel portrays the difficulty of opening oneself to a new, vastly different environment and its distinctively different population. It also displays Cather's belief in the pseudo-science of human development and her interest in exploring gender fluidity. Drawing on a visit to Mesa Verde, Cather sets the central section of The Professor's House amid Anasazi ruins atop an enchanted mesa. Critiquing American capitalism and unbridled technological advancement, the book contrasts a corrupt, materialistic present with an idyllic, mythologized past.

In the course we will explore Cather's treatment of constructions of masculinity and femininity as well as her sometimes problematic representations of Native Americans and Hispanics. Finally, we will address overall structure and the use of imagery, diction, and point of view.

Ed Walkiewicz is a Professor Emeritus of English and former holder of an endowed professorship. He has taught Willa Cather novels at the university level and taught Death Comes for the Archbishop in a Continuing Education course at Oklahoma State University.

LIT S23-02 What Does It Mean To Be a Time Being? Ruth Ozeki's *A Tale for the Time Being

Instructor: Jo Ellen Jacobs
Thursday: February 9, 16, 23 10:00 am-12 noon
Format: In-Person, Discussion
3 sessions: $60

What do 9/11, tree hugging, tsunamis, Kamikazes, cosplay and Sunnyvale play, manga fantasy and Buddhist ritual, mossy temples and skyscrapers, crow dreams and Zen nuns have in common? Come find out by reading A Tale for the Time Being by Ruth Ozeki. We will examine what it means to be a being in time. Both a philosophical and literary treasure, this book will take you into and out of yourself. You'll discover why suicide is an answer. And why life is an answer.

LIT S23-03    Rewriting the Slave Narrative: From Harriet Jacobs to Colson Whitehead
COURSE CANCELLED

Instructor:     Gregory Jay
Thursday:     March 30, April 6, 13    3:15–5:15 pm
Format:        In-Person, Discussion
3 sessions:    $60

The 2017 Pulitzer Prize went to Colson Whitehead for The Underground Railroad, a harrowing novel that used historical realism and science fiction to rewrite the classic escaped slave narrative. One such classic is Harriet Jacobs's Incidents in the Life of a Slave Girl (1861), which tells Jacobs' story of hiding for years before finding freedom. In this course, we will read and discuss Jacobs's book, including its detailed recounting of plantation cruelties, and then compare it with Whitehead's. Does Whitehead's updating teach us something new about the legacy of American slavery and racism? How does it connect to our own time? We will pay particular attention to the stories of Black women in these works and their specific fates and ambitions. Note: a ten-part adaptation of Underground Railroad premiered on Amazon Prime in 2021.

Before the first class meeting on March 30, students should read Harriet Jacobs's Incidents in the Life of a Slave Girl. For the April 6 class, students should read half of Colson Whitehead's The Underground Railroad. For the April 13 class, students should complete The Underground Railroad. Any edition of either work is acceptable

A retired professor of English and American Studies, Gregory Jay spent four decades teaching in the humanities (with a social justice focus) and working with high school and college educators. He greatly enjoys the rich intellectual and personal discussions so characteristic of the RENESAN classroom.

LIT S23-04    T.S. Eliot's "The Waste Land"

Instructor:     Martha Yates
Tuesday:     April 4, 11, 18, 25    1:00-3:00 pm
Format:        In-Person, Discussion
4 sessions:    $80

Published in 1922, T.S. Eliot's "The Waste Land" is one of the defining poems of the 20th century. Created during the Modernist movement in poetry, it is partly Eliot's response to the horror of World War I. We will read the five sections of the poem slowly, stopping often to follow the allusions Eliot makes to Dante, Shakespeare, Middleton, Ovid, Baudelaire, Chaucer, and others and explore the many ways "The Waste Land" is relevant to our times. Eliot as a student of ancient Greek, Sanskrit, and Eastern thought uses these as leitmotifs throughout his poem. With Martha's background in these subjects and with the knowledge the participants bring, we will work to unfold the complex latticework of Eliot's "The Waste Land." The instructor recommends the following edition: The Waste Land and Other Poems published by Vintage Classics, May 2021. Any edition should be in book form, NOT digital, and must include line numbers and Eliot's own notes on the poem.

Winner of the national Barbara Deming Memorial Poetry Award and the Southwest Literary Center's Discovery Competition, Martha Yates (PhD in Ancient Greek, UCLA, MA in Comparative Religion, Columbia University) has been a member of the Community of Writers in California since 1996. Martha has worked with Nobel Prize winning poet Louise Gluck and U.S. Poet Laureates Ada Limon and Robert Haas. Her poems and essays have appeared in Krisis: a Journal of Philosophy, Favonius, The Harwood Review, Santa Fe Literary Review, and Squaw Valley Review, as well as other periodicals.

Turgenev's Fathers and Children: Except for 100 Years, the '60s in Russia Were Not That Different from the '60s in the US

Instructor: Robert Glick
Wednesday: April 19, 26 3:15-5:15
Format: Hybrid (ZOOM or In-Person), Presentation
2 sessions: $40

In its time, Turgenev's Fathers and Children (1862) was a very misunderstood novel. Turgenev meant Bazarov, the story's hero, to epitomize the revolutionary man of action that Turgenev and his friends thought Russia needed to move beyond their parents' ineffectual liberal philosophies. In the novel, Bazarov and his friend Arkady visit Arkady's family's estate to confront the older generation with their new, more radical beliefs.

Unfortunately, when the novel appeared, many of Turgenev's fellow radicals saw Bazarov as a caricature of their revolutionary principles, and the reactionaries thought the book proved their criticism of the new generation. Attacked by both sides, Turgenev left Russia. He rarely returned, but he became the best-known Russian author in Europe with better sales than Tolstoy or Dostoyevsky.

Robert Glick, PhD in Comparative Literature (French, German, Russian, and English) has taught 19th and 20th Century realist novels for many institutions (including RENESAN) for the past 50+ years.

The Santa Fe Opera 2023 Season

Instructor: Mark Tiarks
Thursday: March 30, April 6, 13, 20, 27 10 am–noon
Format: Hybrid (ZOOM or In-Person), Presentation
5 sessions: $100

Each session of this course will focus on one production in the 2023 opera season—The Flying Dutchman (Wagner), Tosca (Puccini), Rusalka (Dvořák), Pelléas et Mélisande (Debussy), and Orfeo (Monteverdi). All sessions will feature extensive video or audio excerpts, a wealth of visual imagery, a behind-the-scenes look at each opera's gestation, including its inspiration and source material, and biographical sketches of the composer and librettist. Students will receive a handout that contains a plot summary, background information, and recommended recordings and videos for each opera.

Mark Tiarks is a grizzled veteran of the professional opera world (leadership positions at Santa Fe Opera, Chicago Opera Theater, Portland Opera, and Opera Theatre of Saint Louis) and a grizzled newcomer to the world of daily journalism, as exemplified by his writings for the Santa Fe New Mexican.

The Recorded History of Vocal Performance in Opera: Tosca, Pelléas et Mélisande, Flying Dutchman, Rusalka, and *Orfeo

Instructor: Ifan Payne
Tuesday: March 7, 14, 21 3:15–5:15 pm
Format: Hybrid (ZOOM or In-Person), Presentation
3 sessions: $60

The first recording of a human singing voice was made in France on April 9, 1860. By listening to recorded excerpts by legendary singers and orchestras from the earliest days of audio recording to the present day, students will examine the history of changing performing styles over the last century and a half. The course consists of an audio-visual presentation that will include, but not be limited to, comparing audio excerpts while following the vocal score of selected arias in the operas by Puccini, Wagner, Debussy, Dvořák, and Monteverdi to be presented during the 2023 Santa Fe Opera season.

Ifan Payne has written extensively over many decades in both the US and the UK on recordings, opera, and the performing arts. He particularly enjoys sharing historic recordings with students and analyzing and comparing differences between performances.

MUS S23-03: History of American Folk Music

Instructor: Dick Rosemont
Thursday: January 26 3:15–5:15 pm
Format: In-Person, Presentation
1 session: $20

This course is a review of 20th century American folk music. It includes blues and hillbilly recordings of the 1920s, Leadbelly in the 1930s, Pete Seeger and the Weavers beginning in the late 1940s, revivalists like the Kingston Trio in the 1950s, Joan Baez and Bob Dylan in the 1960s, and contemporary artists who continue the folk tradition.

From an early age, music has been a part of Dick Rosemont's life. Encouraged by his father, who played in big bands in the 1930s, Dick formed his first rock band in 1963. He has produced and hosted radio programs on both public and commercial stations. His music articles have appeared in various publications. After 47 years, he still buys and sells record albums here in Santa Fe.

Most people think of Claude Debussy as the composer of the well-loved Clair de Lune, written in 1890. However, Debussy's piano writing straddles the 1890s through 1915, a period of enormous experimentation and change in classical music. Thanks to the 1889 World Exposition in Paris, many classical composers were exposed to non-Western scales, such as Javanese gamelan music, for the first time. The stylistic and color experimentation of the Impressionist painters was also making its way into music. And Wagner and his influence loomed large: Debussy went from being a confirmed Wagnerite to turning his back on Wagner, essentially developing his very personal French style of expression antithetical to everything Germanic.

Debussy's piano writing is colorful, evocative, and exquisitely nuanced, and his musical timing highly sophisticated. In this lecture/recital, the instructor will discuss Debussy's life and times and will play and examine Clair de Lune and other early pieces, as well as selections from Images, Children's Corner, and both books of Preludes. This course will also help fans of Pelléas and Mélisande (presented by Santa Fe Opera this summer) gain more insight into Debussy's compositional style.

Steinway Artist Jacquelyn Helin (BM, University of Oregon; MA, Stanford University; DMA, University of Texas at Austin.) has played solo, concerto, and chamber performances in many of the world's renowned musical venues. An active performer, she has appeared locally with all of Northern New Mexico's great musical institutions. For 17 years, she served as Music Director of the United Church of Santa Fe, and for 10 years, she taught piano majors at the New Mexico School for the Arts where she was a founding faculty member. She has played a wildly popular lecture-recital for RENESAN every year for the last eight years.

MUS S23-06-Z Forgotten Musical Treasures of the Baroque Era COURSE CANCELLED

Instructor: Thierry van Bastelaer
Tuesday: March 14, 28, April 11, 25 3:15–5:15 pm
Format: ZOOM, Presentation
4 sessions: $80

History has a mysterious way of shaping our collective memory. Some historical figures who were enormously influential in their time are largely forgotten today. Some achievements that went largely unnoticed in their days are celebrated today. So it is with music from the 17th and 18th century. We all know Vivaldi's Four Seasons and Handel's Messiah, but how familiar are we with some of these composers' other, often more powerful and affecting works? How often do we hear music by the versatile and wistful Henry Purcell? How many of us have ever heard of composers Jan Dismas

Zelenka and Jean-Joseph Cassanéa de Mondonville? This course will discuss and present some of this wonderful yet overlooked body of music, while exposing the class to some of today's most compelling performers.

Founder and manager of two classical music appreciation meetups, Thierry van Bastelaer is an amateur singer who has performed in symphonic and chamber choirs in Europe and the United States. This is his fourth class for RENESAN.

The Ethics of Living and Dying with Medical Technology

Instructor: Caroline Burnett
Monday: April 10, 17 10 am–noon
Format: Hybrid (In-Person or ZOOM), Discussion
2 sessions: $40

Medical technology often saves or improves life, but it can also harm or end life. Is there a moral obligation to use technology? Should there be limits to when or how we use medical technology? How can we develop a meaningful stance toward technology? Answering these questions requires careful analysis. This class explores the history of medical technology, the goals of its creators, and the expectations of its users. It also helps students identify and assess potential benefits and harm to better evaluate treatment choices.

Caroline Burnett holds a BS and MS in Nursing, as well as a ScD in Health Services Research from Johns Hopkins University School of Hygiene and Public Health. She has done extensive research and focused her clinical practice on the ethics of health care decision-making, informed consent, and advance care planning. Burnett is a Board Member of St. Vincent Hospital Foundation.

Truth: Yours or Mine?

Instructor: George Duncan
Wednesday: April 19, 26 10 am–noon
Format: Hybrid (In-Person or ZOOM), Presentation
2 sessions: $40

From about age 3, kids realize that no one can read their minds, so kids sometimes choose to lie. As adults, we are bombarded with information conveying various shades of truth and untruth. We believe that truth matters--is morally right, is the golden guide for scientists, and is evidence for rational decision making. Yet beliefs and feelings seem to dominate truth, certainly in politics? Why is to so hard to discern truth from falsehood? Has postmodernism wrecked the notion of objective truth, so that my truth may be radically different from your truth?

George Duncan, Emeritus Professor of Statistics and Public Policy at Carnegie Mellon, is a Fellow both of the American Statistical Association and the American Association for the Advancement of Science. He is on the Board of the Museums of New Mexico Foundation and the Center for Contemporary Art, as well as on RENESAN's Curriculum Committee. He has taught at RENESAN about the impact on our lives of torrents of information—some of it truthful and some of it not.

Supporting Those Meeting the End of Life: The Perspective of a Buddhist-Trained Chaplain

Instructor: Marilyn Whitney
Wednesday: February 15 1:00-3:00 pm
Format: In-Person, Discussion
1 session: $20

Are there unique perspectives to the end of life from Zen Buddhist philosophy? Are those perspectives different from those of the theistic religions, and how do all of these support us as we face the final stage of life? What constitutes spiritual care at life’s end? The instructor will discuss the understanding and insight she has gained from her training at Upaya Zen Center's Chaplaincy program, her clinical training in Interfaith chaplaincy, and her countless encounters with patients facing the end of life. Let's explore this topic together.

Marilyn Whitney has been practicing Buddhism for 20 years. Marilyn received clinical training in interfaith spiritual care at the Pacific Institute. She graduated from Upaya Zen Center’s chaplaincy program and became an ordained Buddhist chaplain in 2013. Since 2013, she has worked as a hospital chaplain at Christus St. Vincent Hospital, and specifically as an oncology chaplain for the past five years.

SCI S23-01 Bird Migration on Two Continents

Instructor: Janie Chodosh & Lenny Gannes
Monday: April 17, 24 1:00-3:00 pm
Format: In-Person, Presentation
2 sessions: $40

Bird migration is an amazing feat of directional control, cooperation, and endurance. In this course’s first session, Dr. Lenny Gannes will speak about the incredible migration of birds through Israel. In the second session, author Janie Chodosh will speak about neotropical migratory birds who breed in North America and winter in Central and South America.

Lenny Gannes (PhD in Ecology & Evolutionary Biology, Princeton) heads the Santa Fe Community College Department of Biology.

Janie Chodosh, field naturalist, environmental educator, and writer, has studied birds in Central and North America. Janie and Lenny share a love of birds and awe for the miracle of bird migration, which has led them to different parts of the world to learn about, watch, and study birds.

SCI S23-02 The Complexity of Gender

Instructor: Creve Maples
Wednesday and Thursday: March 1, 8, 9 3:15-5:15 pm
Format: In-Person, Presentation
3 sessions: $60

In her recent confirmation hearing, Justice Jackson was asked by Tennessee Senator Marsha Blackburn if Jackson would “provide a definition of a woman.” To Senator Blackburn’s surprise, Justice Jackson replied she could not. Justice Jackson’s answer to this highly contentious, polarizing, and misunderstood issue is correct. A person’s biological sex would appear easy to determine. It is not! From a biological perspective, sex and gender are only loosely coupled. Chromosomes, hormones, and pre-natal environment play independent, and sometimes contradictory, roles in determining gender.

In 1936 the Olympic Committee attempted to distinguish male from female athletes. Eighty years later, after much human trauma, we still have yet to find any definitive test. This class will explore the complex factors that ultimately define a person’s place in the gender spectrum and provide a scientific basis for understanding why such diversity exists. The first two sessions will focus on presentation, and the third session (occurring one day after the second) will dedicate an hour to questions, answers, and discussion.

Dr. Creve Maples (PhD in Nuclear Science, UC Berkeley), has worked in both academia (Head of the Advanced Computer Architecture Lab at UC Berkeley’s Lawrence Berkeley National Lab and Head of the Synthetic Environment Lab at Sandia National Laboratory) and in the private sector (Chief Scientist at Vitesse Electronics and CEO of MuSE Technologies) designing advanced computers and developing virtual reality systems for learning. His work in human/computer interfaces led to investigations into human perception and primitive brain function. His interest in history and archeology led to the formation of companies active in these areas. His RENESAN classes result from scientific curiosity, love of photography and travel, and desire to explore unusual, thought-provoking topics.

SCI S23-03 Health Care Decisions as We Age

Instructor: Cheryl Marita
Wednesday: February 22 10:00 am-12:00 noon
Format: In-Person, Presentation
1 session: $20

Dealing with the ever-changing needs of our aging bodies is a challenge. We must become active participants in our health care, understand our goals and abilities, and realize the effect that our actions and decisions have on ourselves and our families. In this course, Cheryl Marita will discuss her past hospice experience as well as her current work in palliative care. As a group, we will explore how the choices we make affect our family and friends. Her recent book Touching the Veil - End of Life Stories through the Eyes of a Nurse portrays how some families handled their decisions. In her work, Cheryl has learned that sharing our fears, concerns, and values can open doors to intimate and honest communication within families.

Cheryl Marita (RN, MA in Agency Counseling) started writing as a columnist on her high school newspaper, then took a 55-year hiatus to work as a hospice nurse and health care leader. Cheryl is a lifelong learner, first as a nurse, then receiving her master’s degree when she was 40, and recently earning a Certificate in Creative Writing from Santa Fe Community College. She lives in Northern New Mexico and provides palliative care at a local hospital. Her work is published in the Santa Fe Literary Review and Bosque Rhythms. In Touching the Veil Cheryl shares her bedside hospice experiences and transports the reader into events that will carry them into their future.

SCI S23-04      Some Things You DIDN'T Learn in Biology Class about DNA and RNA

Instructor:      Bob Hinton
Wednesday:      February 8, 15, 22      3:15-5:15 pm
Format:            In-Person, Presentation
3 sessions:       $60

This course first introduces students to the basics of DNA and RNA in simple language. Then we will discuss how mRNA vaccines, gene therapy, recombinant DNA, and genetically altered (transgenic) mice build on this basic biology. Scientists can now edit the genome of living organisms. Are you aware that PCR COVID tests are based on the intrinsic biology of DNA? Did you know that insulin is now typically produced by means of recombinant DNA within bacteria? We will look at many important questions. What is the significance of DNA's double helix form and what does DNA actually do? What crucial roles do the types of RNA play? What is a gene, and how are genes regulated? Come learn about your body!

Bob Hinton (PhD in biological anthropology and postdoc study in anatomy & craniofacial biology) taught anatomy and related subjects for 30 years in a dental school. This is his fifth RENESAN course.

SCI S23-05 or      Introduction to Environmental Protection

SCI S23-05-Z      Instructor:      Dennis McQuillan
Monday:            February 27, March 6, 13      3:15-5:15 pm
Format:            Hybrid (In-Person or ZOOM), Presentation
3 sessions:       $60

Human beings have disturbed many of the physical, chemical, and biological systems that sustain life on Earth, resulting in threats to public health and the environment. This course will empower citizens with technical knowledge needed to protect their families, homes, communities, countries, and planet from these hazards. Students do not need a scientific background; technical subjects are presented in conversational English. The instructor will explore the topics of air, water, soil, plants, animals, food, radiation, toxic pollutants, wildfires, climate change, environmental health, zoonotic diseases, and environmental justice, often using examples in New Mexico. Students will learn about opportunities for "citizen science," activism, and participation in decision-making proceedings.

Geologist Dennis McQuillan has worked in the environmental field for more than 43 years as a regulator, consultant, and educator. Dennis is the former Chief Scientist for the New Mexico Environment Department and was appointed to the New Mexico Mining Commission. He has investigated hundreds of pollution cases, including outbreaks of environmental disease; worked on emergency response teams; overseen cleanup actions; authored technical and lay-public articles; and presented at public meetings, conferences, short courses, and guest lectures. Dennis is the founder of High Desert Science, a New Mexico-based training and consulting business, and recipient of the 2023 New Mexico Earth Science Achievement Award.

Geology's Window into Vanished Landscapes

Instructor: Albert Shultz
Thursday: March 16 10 am–noon
Format: In-Person, Presentation
1 session: $20

What did the landscape look like in the unseen past? How can we discover this unknown world? The answer is sedimentary rocks! This introduction to interpreting sedimentary rocks describes how geology has solved the mysteries of unseen ancient environments. The instructor will highlight his discussion with many examples of strata deposited in seas, deserts, and rivers from our region and elsewhere.

Born and raised in the Santa Fe area, Albert Shultz (PhD in Geology, Indiana University) worked in the petroleum industry for 24 years in subsurface interpretation, geologic modeling, and stratigraphy. He has taught geology to undergraduate and graduate students. Besides exploring rocks, Shultz enjoys watching birds and studying the stars.

Summer Weather Outlook and Climate Change Picture

Instructor: James Kemper
Monday: April 3 10:00 am-12:00 noon
Format: Hybrid (In-Person or ZOOM), Presentation
1 session: $20

We will look at the weather picture for the summer after we review the past winter. La Niña is expected to diminish this spring. We will consider what to expect for the summer monsoon in its place. We'll also look at the constantly shifting climate-change picture for the globe and the Southwest. News outlets are flooding us with new information as we grapple with climate changes and mitigation attempts.

James Kemper (MS, Meteorology focused on numerical weather prediction, Florida State University) worked for the National Weather Service for 39 years doing numerical modeling research in forecasting severe thunderstorms and tornadoes. At the Washington DC forecast office, he led forecasting centered on marine, aviation, agriculture, and public warnings; he also managed Alaska Region forecast operations, science program, and training program.

THEATER

THR S23-01 What a Stage Director Does

Instructor: Robert Benedetti
Tuesday: February 21 10:00 am-12:00 noon
Format: In-Person, Presentation
1 session: $20

In this course, the instructor will explore the many forms that directing a stage play may take, especially in response to the nature of the material being performed.

Dr. Robert Benedetti worked for over 60 years as a director, producer, and teacher. He is a member of the College of Fellows of the American Theater, former Dean at the California Institute of the Arts, and Chairman of the Acting Department at the Yale Drama School. Three-time Emmy and Peabody Award winner. Benedetti is the founder of the New Mexico Actors Lab in Santa Fe, with which he has directed 16 shows.

THR S23-02 Four Plays About Sex

Instructor: Mark Tiarks
Monday: January 23, 30, February 6, 13 10:00 am-12:00 noon
Format: In-Person, Discussion
4 sessions: $80

In this course, students will discuss four plays on this popular subject dating from 411 BCE to 2015. In Aristophanes's Lysistrata (411 BCE), the women of Athens join to withhold sex from their husbands and boyfriends until they end the Peloponnesian War between Athens and Sparta. In William Wycherley's comedy The Country Wife (1675), Harry Horner falsely claims to be impotent, thus gaining easy access to seduce the wives of several friends. Before becoming a blond bombshell in Hollywood films, Mae West wrote and starred in Sex, a play centered on a group of pimps and prostitutes, which was so racy the police shut it down and judges sentenced West to ten days in the workhouse. Finally, in Indecent (2015), Paula Vogel recounts the controversy around the 1925 Broadway staging of Sholem Asch's God of Vengeance, the first American Broadway play to depict a lesbian relationship onstage.

Mark Tiarks writes on cultural issues for The Santa Fe New Mexican and has taught RENESAN classes on opera, musical theater, film, and literature. He has served as General Director of Chicago Opera Theater and Producing Director of Chicago's Court Theatre. He majored in dramatic literature at Carleton College, studied theater and opera for a year as a Thomas J. Watson Foundation Fellow, and was the Producing Director of Chicago's Court Theatre, which specialized in classic drama.

THR S23-03 The Birth of Musical Theater and Who Invented It.

Instructor: Richard Block
Wednesday: February 1 1:00-3:00 pm
Format: In-Person, Presentation
1 session: $20

People love musicals. Most of the great musicals have been made into successful movies, including Steven Spielberg's recent remake of West Side Story. Musical theater is an American theater form, an American invention, which is jealously imitated in other countries but never equaled. In this course, students will look at how the American musical theater started, grew, and gave birth to a new dramatic form: the musical play, an integrated performance form that tells a story combining music and drama.

Richard Block (BFA in Theatre Arts, Carnegie Mellon; MA in Theatre Arts, U. of Washington) grew up in the "Golden Era" of American musical theater (1940s-1970s) and knows virtually every musical of the period, and most of the songs by heart. Block was composer of an off-Broadway musical revue and directed off-Broadway. He is the founder of Actors Theatre of Louisville and served as its Producer and Artistic Director for seven years. Block has directed at professional theaters and opera houses all over the country and has taught directing workshops in Chicago and in Santa Fe.

TRP S23-01 Evening Under the Stars

Host: Jim Baker
Friday: March 17 7-9:30 pm
Format: In-Person, Discussion
1 session: $20

Note: This trip is limited to 20 participants. If the weather is adverse on March 17, the star party will be held on March 18.

Enjoy the enchantment of New Mexico's night sky at this RENESAN star party offered each semester. We observe the night sky, using both telescopes and naked eyes, at our host's home near Eldorado. The telescopes are aimed at any visible planets as well as several deep-space objects: galaxies, nebulae, star clusters. And, of course, no astronomical tour is complete without identifying the major constellations and the first-magnitude stars on display that night. Refreshments are served, including warm drinks. If clouds blot out the stars on March 17th, we will try again on Saturday, March 18, hoping for clear skies.

Jim Baker began stargazing as a child and has kept looking up at the heavens for over 60 years as an amateur astronomer. For RENESAN, in addition to his Evening Under the Stars each semester since 2015 (except during the coronavirus pandemic years), Jim has taught a beginners' astronomy course three times, and given lectures on astronomy topics, including All About Galaxies in Spring 2022.
